

Benefits of Hedgerows

Hedgerows are made up of native trees, shrubs, and flowers. They form a network of wildlife corridors across our landscape. These precious habitats provide a range of benefits for biodiversity and for humans.

www.pollinators.ie

www.biodiversityireland.ie

Wildlife corridors

Carbon storage

Blossom and berries feed insects, birds, and mammals

Flood control

Crop protection and shelter for livestock

Hedgerow margins with native wildflowers provide food and shelter

Pest control

Reduce fertiliser runoff